How Watch Cases are Made.

Most persons have an ambition to carry a gold watch case, and yet few people know how a watch case is made, or the vast difference in the quality of them. In a Solid GOLD WATCH CASE, aside from the neversary thickness for engraving and polishing, a large proportion of the metal is needed only to stiffen and hold the engraved portions in place, and supply strength. The surplus is not only needless, but undesirable, because gold is a soft metal and cannot furnish the stiffness, strength and elasticity necessary to make the case permanently strong and close-fitting. The perfect watch case must combine gold with some metal that will supply that in which the gold is deficient. This has been accomplished by the James Boss Gold Watch Case which saves the WASTE of needless gold, and INCREASES the SOLIDITY and STRENGTH of the case, and at the same time reduces the cost ONE HALF.

A TEXAS EDITOR'S DREAM.

His Vision of the Night Realized at the Post Office.

Last fall Mr. J. L. Tucker, a well-Col. J. W. Evens, senior editor of Stone Calf and the other Indians, the Palestine Advocate, who bad known are to Mi Tucker from dwell upon the sad subject that the "leader" in the next day's issue of the [Advocate was somewhat less] brilliant and convincing than usually characterized his efforts.

That night, after a supper of spare ribs and old-fashioned home made sausages, flanked by pigs' feet for dessert, the Colonel dreamed as follows: He suddenly discovered that his right hand had been terribly out conclusive claims upon the favor of and mangled by a gin-saw, only one finger remaining. Even that was to vindicate and preserve-claims muchly danaged, and so sharply had it been trimmed by the "saw which always gets there, Eli," that his only consolation was that if the price of pens continued to advance he might be able to write yet a few more slashing "leaders" with the pointed stub. At this critical juncture the Colonel says he telt his soul to light up for joy, for on the pointed tically out of the question. - Globe stub aforementioned there appeared Democrat. a massive gold ring, set with splendid stone, a genuine ruby, the sparkling effulgence of whose rays lighted up the room and the editorial couch like unto the brilliance of old reign, when no union soldier who Sol at high noon on a clear day in voted the democratic ticket was the festive month of May. There, right under his nose, lay a handsome gold ring with a brilliant ruby stone, fairly laughing in the face of the happy finder. The Colonel had more spare-ribs and sausage for breakfast that morning. He was very happy until a tew days after, when Mr. D. J. McGowan proved ownership and took possession of his property. Thus ended the editor's dream.

Was Stone Calf Poisoned?

Leavenworth, Kas., Jan. 1 .- A gentleman well posted on matters of Indian affairs in the territory said today that Stone Calf, the noted Chevenne chief, did not die a natural death, as was supposed at the time, but was poisoned by members of his own tribe out of revenge for the part he took in lying to Gen. Sheridan, and thus causing the latter to recommend to the president the removal of the cattle from their reservation. Shortly after the order was put in Caldwell to trade, and they said that Stone Cali would not see another snow, as they intended to poison him Proof can also be obtained that these same Indians purchased the poison for the purpose. They felt very sore over the removal of the cattle, as it had deprived them of a large amount of money.

The gentlemen also stated that the Indians blamed Mr. Amos Chapman, the government inter-Palestine, Tex., Dec. 29, 1885, - preter at Fort Supply, for his systematic efforts to influence Stone Calf as against the cattlemen and to-do farmer hving near Barton post have them driven out of the territor office, on the northern line of this Chapman is said by them to be a county, had the misfortune to get very untruthful man and seldom his left hand and several of his gives the military a true interpretafingers hadly mangled while feeding tion of what they may have to say. his mammoth steam gin.
